MUSIC AND THE DRAMA.

Probability of Renewing the Horse Racing of 1875.

NEWPORT, R. L., June 21, 1877. The weather here is delightful, the recent rains hav-ing made the trees and lawns unusually attractive. The cottages are rapidly filling up, and the latter part or the present month will witness the arrival of all these who are to occupy a "Newport cottage." The local as well as the transient population are pleased to know that the game of pole is to be played here again on the clerant grounds of the Westchester Pole Club, situated at the lower end of the city. The lot has been drained, and the gentleman having charge of it has had it rolled down as smooth as a dining room table, and no compraint will be likely to be made by any of the players this season by reason of the ball getting into holes as it did repeatedly last summer. All the is kept cut as close as it is possible for lawn mower or soythe to cut it. Polo is not ing game the season would be as likely to be dull as it the sport. The residents are auxiously looking forward to the time when they will be given an opportunity to see a repetition of what pleased them so much last year. The road leading, to the polo lot from Bellevue avenue via Spring street will be watered on polo days," which will be welcome news to those who wait the grounds. Thames street, the principal also to be watered as usual, and the City Council has voted to expend a sum of $3,000 to water Bellovue avenue—the leading fashionable drive—the road leading to the bathing beach, and a few small streets in the vicinity of the club house. Thames street and many of the other streets are usually watered by private enterprise. CUIDOOR CONCERTS.

sist of the semi-weekly concerts at Fort Adams, given by the First United States artillery band, one of the country. Free concerts are given every Tuesday and Friday afternoon, and they are well patronized by the cottagers and others. Evening concerts will be given in Touro Park by one of the local bands at least two THE TOWN AND COUNTRY CLUB.

The weekly meetings of the Town and Country Club are also very interesting occasions, and they are at-tended by all the prominent literary individuals who may be in town. This season art will be represented by Mr. John La Farge, Mr. Richard M. Statgg, William T. Richards, Mr. Richard M. Hont, Mr. Edward T. Potter, Mr. Thomas G. Appleton and C. C. Perkins; science by Professor Aiexander Agassiz, Pro-lessor Josiah P. Cooke, Professor William B. United States Army; literature, by Mrs. Wilson G. Eyre, Miss Woolsey (Susan Coolidge), Rov. Charles T. Brooks, Protessor V. Betta, Colonel Thomas W. Higginson and Colonel George E. Waring, Jr. The club also includes among its members Mrs. Juna Ward Howe, who is the President; Hon. John H. B. Latrebe, Miss Ticknor (whose recent biography of her father has been read with so much interest), Mr. Henry G. Marquand (the benefactor of Princeton Col-

THE DRAMATIC CLUB.

THE BRAMATIC CLUB.

The Believue Dramatic Club is now one of the leading attractions for a large class of the animor residents, its membership to a great extent being made up of "cottagers." The club is in a flourishing condition, notwithstanding the last that nearly all the entertainments given have been for local charities, notably the Newport Hospital and Children's Home. These are the leading entertainments of a public nature which will be offered and which, in consection with the usual number of dinner parties, receptions, Ac., will make the season enjoyable to that class who visit Newport and who are admitted into the first circles of society,

One of the hotels will have a first class orchestra all One of the botes will have a first class orchestra all through the height of the season, and which, no doubt, will be pleasing to the hotel guests, who are to pay for the suxury, and the cottage folks who may deign to associate with the hotel guests upon its broad piazzas. Usually the cottage people attend the Saturday night hope at this hotel and mingle quite freely among the guests. In fact, the Saturday night hope at the Geean Rouse are among the leading events of the week, and there is no doubt that they will be kept up this season in fill their brilliancy.

It is expected that there will be quite a representation of the Coaching Club here during the season, as it is expected that there will be quite a representation of the Coaching Club here during the season, as was the case last season, and which will attract no littie attention. Some of the members of the club author own or occupy cottages here, among the number being

Mr. Acquatus Whiting, Theodore A. Havemeyer, Hugo
O. Friisch and Mr. Belmont, from New York, and Mr.
Fairman Rogers, of Philadelphin—a very creditable number. It is possible that Mr. Alian T. Rice and Mr.
William P. Douglass, both of New York, will also be here, with their coaches, as well as other mombers of the club. Measure. Rice and Douglass were here last summer. The new coach of Mr. Fritsch, above mentioned, will be on the avenue for the first time in Newport in a few days.

HORSE RACING. posed to have a race meeting here during the ser It is the intent on of several well known gentle proposed to have a race meeting here during the season. It is the intent on of several well known gentlement to have a meeting where aports as taken in their legitimate sense shall precionmate, where to he "secret auri fames," the pecuniary element, so far as profit to the association is concerned, shall be eliminated; where no noarse voice of the pool seller shall shock the institutions ear; no opportunity be given for drunk-enness to become disorder; but to winch all; rice and poor, shall be invited to come to see good horses contest for liberal prizes. In most cities, especially where regular race courses are established and large expenses have been incurred, or where racing is carried on by individuals for the sake of some profit, direct or indirect, such a meeting as is proposed would be impossible. In fact, it is difficult to think of any place but Newport whore it could be practicable. Judging, however, from the success which attended an impromption aftair given here two years ago, and relying on the literality of the residents, it is thought that during the season of 1877 there may take piace such a meeting as will be both novel and successful.

promptu affair given here two years ago, and relying on the liberality of the residents, it is thought that during the season of 1877 there may take place such a meeting as will be both novel and successful.

The seasons of 1877 there may take place such a meeting as will be both novel and successful.

At the end of the second or Sachuest Beach, where the long to be remembered steeplechase took place two years ago, there is a neck of land almost surrounded by the ocean, of hearly two hundred yards across in area, covered entirely with rich turf. There a flat race course of an oval shape and of a rile and a half in circumierence, no turn in which shall be as sharg as those at Jerome Park, can easily be laid out with very little trouble, by mowing the grass and then rothing the ground, the curface—the racing parlance, they little trouble, by mowing the grass and then rothing the ground, the curface—the racing parlance, the sampless of the climate making the turf equal to that in any country, as the numerous lawns and croquet grounds in this vicinity will show. So far as the steeplechase course is concerned, it has already been demonstrated by former success that no difficulty in laying it out need be acticipated. By oftering a stake for three-year-olds, a sweepstake of a reasonable amount with, say, $1,000 acced, and purses somewhat similar to those given the same and the same of a dozen or twenty good that race norses can be secured, and purses somewhat similar to those given they are all the race of a dozen or twenty good that race norses can be secured, and purses somewhat similar to those given they are all the same tendes to subscribe, and there is hitle doubt that as soon as the matter may be fully determined on many others will be glad also to do so.

Should the decided to give the meeting, it is probable that the important stakes, both for the flat and across country races, will close to the text or lath of August, and that in the advertisement it will be stated that each horse owner making an entry will that hay, straw and good stabling will be provided gratis, which will save the horse owners from all annoyance and nunecessary expense.

It may reasonably be presoned that if a really good that race comes on turf be provided that some of the prominent horse owners and breeders, especially those who may have an idea of following in the wake of Mr. Sandford and racing some time in England, will be glad to avail themselves of an opportunity to compare the performances of their horses on turf with what they have arready done on the drit tracks at Jerome Park and Saratega. For this reason, independent of the attractions of the purses offered by the summer residents, more good horses will be likely to put in an appearance.

Should the president splans be carried out it will be Godena to Newport to have the races, for two years ago the steeplethases were the events of the sonon, as well as the pecuniary interest of the place. The lime has been whell a lew old logics were opposed to races and gloved in the fact that race courses were not solerated. Times however have changed, and now a person case scarcely be found who would not rejoice all the days of his lite were a permanent coarse to be established, if it were ler nothing more than the bedsaft of the summer visitors.

YACHTING.

THE PROGRAMME OF THE SEAWANHAKA YACHT CLUB OCKAN SCHOONER BACE

The ocean schooner race, given under the auspices outside Sandy Hook. The race is open to schooners of the New York, Eastern, Boston, Atlantic, Brooklyn time allowance, by the sailing regulations of the Seawannaka Yacht Club and under the management of ing regulations of the club each yacht must be steered by its owner or some member of the same club. The schooners will be divided into two classes—those measuring more than ninety feet over all and those measuring more than ninety feet over all and those measuring ninety feet and under. There will be one prize in each class provided two yachts start. The course will be from buoy No. 5, off Sandy flook, twenty miles to windward and return, if the wild permits, or twenty miles to leeward and return, Yachts will pass between the Judges' steamer and the buoy going out and coming home, and at these points the time will be taken. After startling the yachts the steamer will proceed to the turning point, where a buoy will be anchored which all yachts must round, leaving it on the starboard hand. Should any yacht reach the home buoy (No. 5), off Sandy mook, in advance of the judges' steamer, she must pass within 100 feet of it, and the owner shall take the time woen the buoy bears due southwest and report the same immediately after the race to the Regatts Committee. The start will be a flying one, and the signals will be given from the judges' steamer as follows:—For preparatory signal, a prolonged biast of the whistle and lowering of the club flag; infeen minutes later, for the start, the same signals will be repeated. Fileen minutes will be allowed for crossing the line, and yachts passing after the nipulated fifteen minutes will be taken as from the expiration of said time. A short blast of the whistle will be given if possible as each yacht's time is taken. After the start the flag upon the steamer will be lowered and will be kept down until the twenty miles have been longed. The judges' steamer Cyclops will leave the Barge Office wharf at seven o'clock to smorning. The Regatta Committee are Messrs. M. Roosevelt Schuyler, James H. Elliott, C. Wyllys Betts, Henry De F. Wecks and Louis? Bayard.

The entries for this regatta closed yeaterday afternoon, with the lider (Commidore S. J. Coggte) and the Rambier (Mr. Thomas) in the first class, and the Peerless (Mr. Roger W. Maxwell) in the second class. This makes only a rac chooners will be divided into two classes—those meas uring more than ninety feet over all and those measur-

ATHLETIC SPORTS.

The second of a series of open handicap games, given under the auspices of the New York Athletic ub, will be held this afternoon on the grounds at Mott Haven. Four events, with seventy-eight entries are on the programme. The sport will begin at half-

POLICE ATHLETIC CLUB GAMES.

The list of enuries for the different games which take place to-night at the Rink, Third avenue and Sixtythird street, under the auspices of the Polics Athletic Club, are now complete, and judging from the character and reputation of the various contestants there is every reasonate look forward to a very interesting series of exhibitions of skill, ecience and endurance. Never before has a programme equal to this been put forth by any similar association, and this fact aione should be sufficient to recommeed the entertainment offered; but the object for which the proceeds of the evening's amusement are given is an additional reason for drawing on the sympathics of the public—the profits going toward establishing a fund for the benefit of the widows and orphans. The events set down for competition that will probably altract the most attention are the one mile and two mile walk and the bicycle race. The first named is peculiarly interesting to members of athletic clubs from the fact that this is the first occasion of a public exhibition being had whereby the morits of the pedestrians belouging to the Police Athletic Club can be judged and tested in comparison with the records obtained by those at facilities to similar societies. The two-mile walk also brings together some of the best known amateurs, and will be watched with more than ordinary interest. The character of the carries in the bicycle contest insures a good race between De Notello and McClelian at least, for Messenger is somewhat too much out of condition to be able to expect to carry off the medal. De Notelle is andoubtedly the favorite, and McClelian will have a hard task to repeat his last doubtful victory over blm.

ARCHERY AND LAWN TENNIS.

ISLAND-ON THE LAWNS, UNDER THE TENTS-CUPID AND PSYCHE IN CONTEST IN FACE OF

The third meeting of the Ladies' Club yesterday at Camp Washington, was an affair remarkable for a gathering of the beaux and belies of New York and its vicinity. The boats of the ferry company in the afternoon carried down to the grounds hundreds of through the old Quarantine grounds to the place of meeting, lending a graceful variety to the government buildings and dotting with pleasing patches of color the lawns and walks. Many of the fair sex enlisted the services of the officers on duty in showing them the uses and intricacies of the fog horus buoys, &c., that he like great painted monsters in the yards, explaining the system of whistling valves, anchors and chains. To see them one would suppose a delegation of Vassar College had arrived on the grounds and were taking initiatory lessons in the the appliance of infernal machines to the vessels of enemies in time of war. One charming brunette insisted upon inserting her head tuto a buoy valve, and when the echo of her sweet voice came back to the assembled crowd in a discordant screech, she was rightened at the effect, and was not surprised that an old sait, with a sort of grim satisfaction, said, "That is a whisting boy."

Irightened at the effect, and was not surprised that an old sait, with a sort of grim satisfaction, said, "That is a whisting boy."

At length the sweet pleasance of the ciub grounds was reached, and there a dehghiful scene met the eyes of the thoughful beholder. Long, closely-snaven lawns of green stretched down to the bay. These across of training grass were not dotted with marquee tents as usual, because the breeze was too strong, but the lawns were crowded with ladies and gentlemen on pleasare bent; the screens for the practice of lawn tentis were set up in different parts of the ground, and merry players were puching the bails in charming disregard of destination, and their shouls of laughter attested that they were more intent upon expuring the hearts of the staiwart follows who watted upon them than in reaching the goal of victory in the scientific and orthodox was. Then the palettes for archery were found to be set up in different parts of the field. These were disks of straw painted in colors, and before each of them were gathered groups, picturesque and full of artistic suggestions.

The positions of the foir markswomen were models of grace, and if one did not know better he would venture the idea that each pose had been practiced before the mirror. The arrows sped from the bows, and, as a truthful chronicler, it must be canerally said, wide of the mark, yet the effect did not seem to be dampening, and the shoults of the growds, the chaping of hands would indicate that a "buil's eye" had been scored every time.

In the practice previous to the regular games several of the gentlemen of the club, desiring to show their skill, made various efforts—in an amateur style—and scored overy time.

In the practice previous to the regular games several of the gentlemen of the club, desiring to show their skill, made various efforts—in an amateur style—and authough Mr. W. Whittick had a fall—through inadvertence—everything was accepted in good nature, and the 'bail' and the bay, which was necessary—on account of injury to the bay—but the lawn tenns bails went flying over the screens, and the shafts of Capid strack deep into the hearts of the players, who were as well satisfied as if they were playing in the tennis courts of Mr. Morris' cartiny paradise.

LAWN TRANS.

About six o'clock Mr. Krebs, the President of the club, strived with a galaxy of beauties, who at once took position and wore the cynosure of all eyes, after which Mr. Freserick Kobbe commenced his larewell game of tennis. The benches were occupied by those fair indies who had bet their dozen of gloves on the success of their chosen champion. The game was a draw—that is to say, a draw only in the scose that Mr. Kobbe was tee chivalrous to win a game in which the ladies were interested on the other side. Mr. J. Ridgeway Moore, a Canadian gentleman, was conceded to be the worst player on the grounds; but he concealed his discomilitares by apologizing for his lack of skill in tennis by good-naturedly saying, "He was first in polo, if not first in the hearts of his countrymen." Mr. Stikeman, also a Canadian gentleman, was also among the guesta, but he was enabled to call game at the proper line and was ruiced out as among the victors, although it was the general sentiment of the club that he should have been called to the front in lawn tennis—aspecially a ladies' game.

AUNT SALLY.

The venerable old lady lost her pipes early in the day, their cliofis emisted the sympathies and entusiasin on not only their own friends, but all those with whom they are associated on Staten Izland, Long Island and New York in this first initial season. It is said to say that the third meeting of the club has far exceeded the expectations of its members, and that the subscrip tions are pouring in continuany, and it is now only question as to the limit of membership.

THE RIFLE.

CRICKET NOTE.

To-day the Germantown Club, of Philadelphia, will nake their first appearance this year in this vicinity. They are engaged to play the Staten Island Club at Camp Washington, and, as both clubs are in good con-cition for playing, an exciting and close contest is au-ticipated. The wickets will be pitched at eleven o'clock sharp. No admission lee will be charged. The grounds may be reached via either forry from the foot of Whitehail street.

THE CLAIMANT'S PROSPECTS FOR A DISTRIBU-TIVE SHARE OF THE PERSONAL PROPERTY. When the Merritt case was called in the Westchester County Surrogate Court vesterday forenoon, ex-Judge Wilson, presented a petition asking that a citation be issued ordering the administrators to file their account preparatory to a division of the estate, as it was now rougy for distribution. Counsel said that in regard to the application made by him at the last hearing for an increase of the administration bond, and also for the appointment of other sureties, they had determined to merge that is the petition for a distribution of the estate; that if this was granted they will be prepared to prove who is the rightful beir to the

A SOCIETY OF PRIENDS' MARRIAGE. Counsel added that accompanying the petition was an affidavit of Mrs. Wilson, setting forth that she is the mother of the claimant; that in the year 1827, she then being a single woman of the age of eighteen years. and John A. Merritt a single man of the age of twentyone years, a marringe was lawfully contracted between them according to the rites of the Society of Friends, of which John A. Morritt was a member; that such marriage was contracted and consummated by cobabitation as man and wife at the residence of Jotham Merritt, the father of John A. Merritt, in the town of Rye, Westchester county; that the town of Rye, Westchester county; that the only issue of such marriage was one son, William J. Merritt, who was born on the 9th day of February, 1825; that he was born on the 9th father's house, supported and educated by him, and was known by the name of William J. Merritt until iourteen years oid, when, at the request of his grandmother, the wife of Jotham Merritt, and with the assent of his parents, he assumed the name of William Wilson, by which he continued to be known until the death of his father, John A. Merritt, in April, 1876, when he resumed his original name of William J. Merrett.

death of his father, Jonn A. Merritt, in April, 1879, when he resumed his original name of William J. Merrett.

Calvin Frost, of counsel for the administrators, replied, saying that an application having been made at the last hearing by counsel on the other side for other auministrators, he thought that question should be settled first, and then his side might have something to say as to the right of opposing counsel to cite the administrators to a distribution. He asked that the matter of revoking the letters of administration be either proceeded with or disministed.

Ex-Judge Tappan, turning to Mr. Thayer, asked him if the administrators were making any preparations for a final accounting, to which the latter replied that he had nothing to say on that subject at present.

Mr. Stillwell asked the Surrogate's interposition to prevent the administrators selling the crops on certain ands where the claimant has lived for twenty years. Counsel said that the crops alluded to had been advertised for sale by Mr. Peck, in his capacity of administrator, and that he had no right to take such a course, when they claimed and intended to prove that William J. Wilson or Merritt was the logal owner of all the real estate of which John A. Morritt was possessed at the time of his death.

The Surrogate said that if the administrators did anything of the kind mentioned by counsel they would be liable in an action for trespass; but he would not like to instruct the administrators as to what they should do, as they had taken an oath before him that they would tainhirdly perform their duties as such administrators.

The surrogate granted the citation ordering the administrators.

The surrogate granted the citation ordering the administrators to appear on the 30th prox. for the purpose of rendering an account of their proceedings, and show cause why the claimant's abare of the personal estate should not be paid.

The "days of absence long and weary" which mark the coming of the summer solutice by the exedus of to-day of their proximity in the dulness of trade. With Gould at the far West trying, perhaps, to entrap the "star of empire" into an operation, and the Pacific sloper performing the part of Jehu by proxy, and he who gathers shekeis through the "postern of s needle's eye" inactive, and, more than all, the uplows party, which at the Bow window like a pill'ry appears,

With heads thrust thro' nailed by the ears, through the purchase of unsalable stocks either gene yachting or cursing their tuck, it is evident that a brisk market just now is out of the question. So speculation is pretty much in the hands of the smail dicers who throw for eighths and quarters, blindly ignorant of what an hour will bring forth as to a change of prices, but eternally wishing themselves possessed of such foresight The end of this day's business ere it come.

Up to midday there was a strong and advancing market. Delaware and Hudson led the way, gaming three points in response to an active covering of shorts by parties who fear the effect of the spread eagle report which popular opinion declares the special committee are about to make. The decision of the company to withdraw from the coal auction business for the present also imparted firmness to quotations. The great trunk lines and the Wester roads likewise improved nearly a point, not from special causes, but that the set of the general current was toward better prices. As a further strengthener the Rock Island directors announced their intention to pay a quarterly dividend of 2 per cent, the books to close on June 30 and money to be paid August 1. The treasures also states that the resolution adopted at the last meeting to cancel 40,000 shares of stock, now in the company's possession, is under consideration of the Board of Directors. Dealings in Lake Shore and Con tral and Hudson were by fits and starts, long intervals of stagnation being succeeded by great activity. The desire to substitute long sellers' options in Central and Hudson for cash sales, as munifested yesterday, was continued to-day, but only with moderate success, though differences for thirty days as great as 1% per cent were conceded for the privilege. Later in the day there happened a general relapse, it having oc-curred to some of the industrious romancers of the street to utilize the St. John fire for that purpose. Their invention took the shape of proclaiming the failure of an English fire insurance company that in point of wealth and importance stands second, if not first, of its class in the world. The telegraph reports its losses to be about $700,000, which it is needless to say is a more bagatelle in respect to its ability to pay. Nevertneless, the desired effect was produced and prices gave way all around, though final dealings showed some roaction and a better feeling.
